The sexual-assault centre in Halifax says young women are suffering the same victimization as Rehtaeh Parsons every day, and there's no end in sight."Sadly, her story is not unknown to us," said Jackie Stevens, co-ordinator of community and legal education for Avalon Sexual Assault Centre.Rehtaeh took her own life last week, two years after she was allegedly gang raped and then harassed by schoolmates.In 2011-12, the Avalon Sexual Assault nurse examiner responded to 119 immediate assaults, most involving women between 13 and 25 years old."What we're hearing a lot ... is there are multiple peopleUnderreporting*8%Per cent of victims of sexual violence who report the attack, according to statistics.involved, people who witness it or know that it's happening, that it's being videoed or photographed," said Stevens.Canadian statistics suggest just eight per cent of victims of sexual violence report their attack.Stevens said part of the problem can be blamed on mixed messages. "They're told that you can't consent to sex when you're drunk or unconscious ... and then they're seeing the police or courts saying nothing can be done about these cases," she said.Avalon has consistently called for a shift in education to focus on potential perpetrators, rather than emphasizing the responsibility of potential victims."Our anti-violence and prevention messages are what you can do to keep yourself safe,and while those may minimize personal risk, they don't stop the problem from happening," said Stevens.A Department of Education spokesperson said via email
the province is working to ensure the sexual-health curriculum is "current and relevant."Stevens said Nova Scotia needs a co-ordinated provincial response to sexual violence."Many of us who do receive funding to do this work, we're doing it with huge mandates and limited resources," she said.Blogger Sarah Williams of hrmparent.ca said parents have a part to play in teaching kids about healthy relationships."Sex ed is one thing, but I think it comes down to those

Vigil brings message of healing and hope

Rehtaeh Parsons. Family members ask for peace and end to violence against women

As the sun set over Halifax on Thursday night, music mingled with incense drifted over Victoria Park as hundreds of people gathered to remember Rehtaeh Parsons.

People of all ages came out to the evening vigil in memory of 17-year-old Parsons, who died on Sunday after taking her own life.

"A lot of people had these feelings that it was a very shocking and traumatizing thing, and I think it is important for communities to come together when these things happen," said El Jones, one of the vigil organizers.

Leah Parsons, Rehtaeh's mother, has said her daughter had been dealing with bullying and depression since being raped by four boys when she was 15.

About 300 people gathered in the square, holding photos of Rehtaeh or candles as a young girl wrote messages in chalk on the ground.

"Keep your head up," read one. "We love you Rehtaeh," said another, surrounded by colourful hearts.

Muriel Provencal Rosevear, 71, said she attended because Rehtaeh's story was so tragic, and it's important to show other young people coping with depression and bullying they are not alone.

Quoted

"There are times in the life of our province where it is very important that we come together, and this is one of those times."

Tory Leader Jamie Baillie

"There's so much stress on them all the time, to try to fit in," said Provencal Rosevear.

"They're our future, let's help them in every way we can."

A few members of Rehtaeh's family spoke during the vigil, including her cousin Angella Parsons.

Parsons gave an emotional plea for stronger legislation against cyberbullying and an end to the culture of victim-blaming in rape cases, but to remember Rehtaeh was a peaceful person.

"She was like the little sister I never had," Parsons said through her tears.

"My family asks people not to respond with violence and aggression to this terrible tragedy."

A number of Halifax dignitaries attended the vigil, including Mayor Mike Savage, Premier Darrell Dexter, Tory leader Jamie Baillie and other MLAs.

Cabinet minister to oversee response to teen suicide

Rehtaeh Parsons. Government criticized after justice minister initially ruled out possibility of review

Premier Darrell Dexter has appointed a cabinet minister to oversee the provincial government's response to the death of Rehtaeh Parsons as it tries to quell a storm of anger over how authorities handled her case.

Marilyn More, the minister responsible for the status of women, will work with the ministers of justice, education, health and community services to assess support services for people who face sexual violence, Dexter said.

He told the legislature he wanted a timely response in order to satisfy the public's concerns about Rehtaeh's case. "I will do everything in my power to create a community that is better equipped to prevent these situations, rather than a community that struggles to find a way to deal with them," Dexter said.

He also said Rehtaeh's family wanted him to publicly denounce violence as a means of addressing bullying.

The RCMP have said they are aware of reports that some are suggesting harm against people involved in the Rehtaeh Parsons investigation.

The 17-year-old girl's family says she hanged herself last week and was later taken off life-support following months of bullying after she was sexually assaulted by four boys and a photo of the alleged incident was distributed.

Dexter said he hopes a series of measures aimed at improving mental-health services, policing and education will be rolled out as soon as possible.

Justice Minister Ross Landry said Thursday he has asked federal Justice Minister Rob Nicholson for a meeting next week to discuss ways of improving the Criminal Code that would address bullying.

Education Minister Ramona Jennex has also asked the Halifax Regional School Board to review its response to Rehtaeh's case.

Protest. Hacker group sets up protest

The hacker group Anonymous says it will be holding a peaceful demonstration this weekend to demand justice for Rehtaeh Parsons.

A release says the protest will take place starting at 2 p.m. this Sunday outside 1975 Gottingen St. — home to the headquarters of the Halifax RCMP and Halifax Regional Police.

The group says it's demanding two things: that the RCMP continue to investigate the alleged rape of Parsons, who took her life last week after two years of relentless bullying, and that Justice Minister Ross Landry will launch an investigation into the case that was dismissed by police.

"Anonymous is continuing to gather information about the circumstances surrounding Rehtaeh's death," the release states. "We are determined to find justice for Rehtaeh."

Police bust up online fraud ring

Wide-ranging con.

Police say scam roped in victims across Canada and the U.S.

ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

Seven people in HRM have been charged in connection with what police are calling a "significant" online fraud operation.

More than 300 people registered complaints with police agencies across Canada and the U.S. about the scammers, who targeted online classified sites.

"They would offer to sell event tickets, sport tickets, and even puppies," said Halifax Regional Police Const. Pierre Bourdages. "The seller would ask for money to be transferred electronically ... there was never any meeting in person."

The buyer would send the money — but never received the promised product.

Bourdages said the individual cases often involved transactions of less than $100, and came in with very little information, so they weren't linked immediately.

He said an investigator started putting it all together after spotting some of the commonalities, and the case snowballed from there.

"He reached out to other police agencies throughout the country that had very similar files," he said. "Once we disseminated that information to our partners, they were able to put these things together, and make one big web that is interconnected."

The alleged scammers used Halifax Public Library computers for Internet access, but spokesperson Kasia Morrison said no user information was divulged to police.

"The police alerted us to their evidence and then we banned some patrons on the basis of their evidence," she said. "Privacy is paramount to us ... so we don't just willy-nilly give out information."

Bourdages said losses in the case come to more than $150,000.

Yarmouth

Firefighters battle warehouse blaze

A building that was used to house part of the furniture inventory for Yarmouth business W.L. Nelson Ltd. was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning.

Aside from the Yarmouth Fire Department, firefighters and equipment from the Lake Vaughan, Port Maitland, Wedgeport and Eel Brook fire departments were on the scene battling the blaze, that was reported around 7:20 a.m.

There were also some firefighters from the Carleton department on site.

Fighting the fire was complicated by the water availability at the scene.

Acting chief John Wainwright said firefighters were augmenting the town's water supply with trucked-in water brought onto the scene by pumpers.

The echo of sirens throughout the town could be heard for hours Thursday morning as they trucked water to the scene.

Thousands of feet of fire hose snaked its way along the street.

Because it was determined early on there was no way to save the building or its contents, firefighters fought the blaze from the exterior and did not enter the building.

STREET CLEANING PROGRAM

The Halifax Regional Municipality advises residents that the annual Street Cleaning Program is now in effect on Peninsular Halifax. Weekly overnight service continues until November 15, 2013.

Motorists and residents are reminded that "No Parking—Street Cleaning" signs are in effect. On-street vehicles must be moved to allow for efficient service delivery and to avoid being ticketed.

Street Cleaning Program takes place on weekdays between the hours of 12:05 am and 8:00 am. Refer to on-street signage for your service day.

The Halifax Regional Municipality thanks motorists and residents for their cooperation. For further information on street maintenance, please call 311 or visit Halifax.ca/TPW

Near Antigonish. Woman fears for family after pet dog shot in the head

A woman in rural Nova Scotia says she fears for the safety of her family after someone shot the family dog in the head.

Cindy Partridge says their pet dog Jade survived the shooting on the weekend near Antigonish.

However, she says she's now wary of letting her two young children play outside.

The 10-month-old dog was shot during the day Saturday in the front yard of the family home. Partridge says she has no idea why. THE CANADIAN PRESS

halifax@metronews.ca

A Walt Disney-approved classic featuring a magical nanny, her jack-of-all-trades chimney-sweep friend and two unruly children will be stopping in at Neptune Theatre.

At the preview launch on Thursday, artistic director George Pothitos unveiled Mary Poppins as the headline show for Neptune's 2013-14 season to cheers, applause and a spirited rendition of Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.

"Mary Poppins — who hasn't grown up with Mary Poppins?" Pothitos said.

As the man responsible for picking Neptune's upcoming shows, he is especially excited about Mary Poppins, but says the coming season has something for everyone.

"What I look to do is to craft a season that has not just variety, but also speaks to different pockets in our community," he said. "Some people love musicals, some people hate musicals. So I make sure they're both taken care of."

Pothitos also wanted to feature Canadian plays this season. Five of the nine shows feature homegrown content, including the Scotiabank Studio Series, Oil and Water and A Christmas Carol: The Musical, which was adapted by Canadians.

"We need to hear stories about ourselves," he said.

Pothitos hopes the 51st season will give audiences more than a night of entertainment.

"If there's something that can inspire people—even if it's just having fun with the kids on the weekend—just to bring them back to a core of what we are."

School hosts 'groundbreaking' day for pride and awareness

Inclusion. Charles P. Allen high school celebrates LGBT community

halifax@metronews.ca

A group of students at Charles P. Allen High School hosted the school's first ever inclusion day.

Orientation Pride and Awareness Day was put on by the Gay Straight Alliance (GSA), with a goal to raise awareness about what the GSA does and the experiences of the LGBT community.

Tanya Chisholm, a teacher and GSA advisor, called the day "groundbreaking."

"This is the most progressive and excited GSA group I've ever worked with," says Chisholm. "I'm extremely proud. Beyond proud. Brought to tears."

The 25 GSA members spent two weeks planning the day and canvassing the community for speakers. The day was filled with workshops and guest speakers, including MP Scott Brison, MLA Kelly Regan and spoken word poet Tanya Davis.

"The goal is not only to bring more awareness to what the GSA does, but to bring an individual message to any student that they should love themselves first," says Chisholm.

The GSA also wanted to combat homophobic language. Students made videos to show how homophobic language hurts, and presented them to the school.

"It's really important to spread equality in the school and the notion that everyone should be treated the same," says Kirby Ross, a grade 12 student.

Acceptance

More than just simple tolerance

While the LGBT community isn't taboo at the high school, it isn't fully accepted yet either. Students are hoping Orientation Pride and Awareness Day can change that.

"It's the homophobic language and the undealt-with atmosphere that there is in the school," says Yasmin Kavar, a Grade 12 student at C.P. Allen. "By addressing these issues and the underlying problems, we'll get over the issue of tolerance and into acceptance instead." METRO

Berry crops delayed as viruses reported

Debert-area farms.
One of the biggest strawberry producers in province affected

Nova Scotia's agriculture minister says a pair of viruses has affected the strawberry crops of four Debert-area farms.

John MacDonell says there is little evidence of the problem in other strawberry-growing regions, including the Annapolis Valley.

Curtis Millen, a longtime strawberry farmer in Great Village, says the viruses are being carried from plant to plant by insects. He says the viruses have withered an early crop of his berries and will affect his strawberry crop for June and part of July.

Millen's farm employs more than 200 workers and is considered one of the biggest strawberry producers in the province.

MacDonell says his department believes the problem can be eradicated over time by farmers through the use of spray. THE CANADIAN PRESS

That's one Strange toy auction this weekend

Strange Adventures. Popular comic shop auctioning off some classic toys

EMILY KITAGAWA
halifax@metronews.ca

Hanging from the ceiling and precariously balanced on low ceiling beams at Strange Adventures in downtown Halifax are about 200 toys.

Come this Saturday, they'll be auctioned off for a good cause, with proceeds going to the IWK Health Centre.

"The owner's daughter was born at the IWK, and it's just a really worthwhile local charity and a good cause," employee Kate Leth said.

Strange Adventures, the popular Sackville Street comic-book store, is moving to the corner of Prince and Lower Water streets on May 4. Leth says the auction is a way for patrons to remember the store.

"We ... wanted to give people the chance to have a little piece of Strange Adventures' history before we open the new shop."

Owner Cal Johnston says some of the toys have been kicking around since the shop's opening 18 years ago.

"It didn't seem fair putting a price on some of these toys," he said.

The toys found their way to the store in all sorts of ways. Johnston says he got some for free, while others he bought as part of collections. Some were even obtained by trading with customers.

Bidding on the toys has already started in a silent auction on Facebook. By Thursday, bids ranged from about $1 to $65 per toy or toy set.

In the store on Saturday, a live auction will be held and bidders are invited to outbid offers on Facebook.

Leth says the store hopes to raise $1,000.

The current location of Strange Adventures will remain open for the month of May while it sells off items it cannot move to the new store.

"It's a shame because we really love this location, and we've been here a long time ... but the new location is really nice and it will be great for tourist season too," Leth said.

BMW impounded as driver nabbed for speeding

A 27-year-old man in Cumberland County faces several impaired-driving charges after police spotted someone driving a BMW 202 kilometres per hour on Wednesday night.

RCMP say they clocked the speeding car at 7:45 p.m. on Highway 104 near Springhill.

Police tried to catch the vehicle but couldn't close the distance, so a traffic stop was set up near Amherst. As police waited, a 911 call came through reporting that the BMW had left the road and crashed a short distance away.

The passenger and driver were not hurt, but RCMP arrested the man for impaired driving and took him to the Amherst station for a breath faces charges including impaired driving, driving while prohibited, dangerous operation of a vehicle and stunt-ing.

He was released and will appear in court in Amherst on June 3.

Police say the BMW has been impounded for 180 days.

Jolie and the G8 supporting the 'forgotten victims' of war

Angelina Jolie brought her celebrity wattage to London on Thursday to back an urgent cause: fighting sexual violence in military conflicts. The Hollywood star joined British Foreign Secretary William Hague in announcing $36 million in additional funding from G8 nations to go toward preventing sexual violence and ensuring justice for its survivors. For too long, Jolie said, survivors of sexual violence have been "the forgotten victims" of wars in the Middle East, Africa and elsewhere. "Today, I believe that their voices have been heard," she said, alongside Hague, U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry and others at a meeting of foreign ministers from G8 nations. ## Baird not sorry for meeting on disputed land

Jerusalem. Palestinian Liberation Organization fears minister has set a 'dangerous precedent'

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird says he did not cross a line by holding a meeting with Israel's justice minister in her East Jerusalem office.

Baird met Tuesday with Tzipi Livni across the Green Line in disputed territory, which the Palestinians and the UN consider occupied land.

Baird says where he has coffee with someone is "irrelevant" to the larger discussion of Middle East peace and does not signal a shift in Canadian foreign policy.

"We're focused on trying to have an impact on the difficult and serious challenges, that being security for Israel, an end to the conflict and the legitimate aspirations for a state from those in the Palestinian side," he said

About what, not where

"I'm not interested in getting into the semantic argument about whether you have a meeting ... on one side of the street (or another)."

during a news conference in London, following a meeting of G8 foreign ministers.

Previous Canadian government ministers have avoided crossing into East Jerusalem with Israeli officials as a matter of principle and practice.

NDP foreign affairs critic Paul Dewar described the meeting as a misstep that betrayed "a serious lack of understanding about the conflict" in the Middle East.

Syria. Rebels say regime slaughtered civilians

Syrian government forces launched a counteroffensive in the south, capturing a town and killing at least 45 people, including women and children, opposition activists said Thursday.

The Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights activist group reported that they were killed by "shooting, shelling and field execution," a reference to people reported to have been shot at close range.

The attack on the town of Sanamein followed a rebel advance in the area in recent weeks. Rebels captured army bases and a major town in the strategic province of Daraa along the border with Jordan.

"They slaughtered any person they found," an activist in the nearby town of Busra al-Harir told The Associated Press via Skype. He would not give his name for fear of reprisal.

"This is the ugliest massacre since the one in Houla," he added, referring to a region where government forces killed more than 100 civilians in May.

Rebels advancing in the south in recent weeks have been aiming to secure a corridor from the Jordanian border to Damascus about 60 miles away in preparation for an assault on the capital.

HATEBASE AIMS TO PREVENT GENOCIDE BY TRACKING HATE SPEECH

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Toronto

A Toronto-based non-governmental organization is tracking the use of hate speech around the world, hoping to help stop genocide before it starts.

The Sentinel Project recently launched Hatebase, a wiki-style website that asks the public to contribute to a multilingual dictionary of hateful words and to log incidents in which those words are used.

The Hatebase API allows users — potentially governments and NGOs — to map out and chart localized spikes and trends in hate speech in real time.

Spikes in hate speech, when combined with other knowledge about tensions in a region, can be an early warning sign of violence, or of violence escalating to genocide, said Timothy Quinn, an adviser with The Sentinel Project.

“When we start layering in hate speech, that gives us an indication — when it’s spiking over time — that tensions are rising,” he said.

For example, in Rwanda in the 1990s “inyenzi,” meaning “cockroach,” was a derogatory term for the Tutsi that escalated in use before the genocide, with radio announcers ultimately calling on people to exterminate the cockroach.

While the Sentinel Project focuses on preventing genocide, the upsurge in hateful

What’s in a word?

“Hate speech is really defined more by the intent than the word itself.”

Timothy Quinn, Sentinel Project

language can also indicate other violence that doesn’t necessarily amount to genocide.

“God knows, there’s a lot that can happen before then that certainly warrants monitoring and intervention,” Quinn said.

Defining hate speech, however, isn’t easy.

“Hate speech is really defined more by the intent than the word itself,” Quinn said. “There are some words that might have a benign meaning in some contexts, but in other contexts have a very malignant intent.”

For example, without a deeper knowledge of the region, the use of “cockroach” in Rwanda in the ‘90s could be attributed to a cockroach infestation, instead of a brewing genocide.

The Hatebase dictionary is growing as more people with important knowledge about the world are beginning to use it, Quinn said.

“The spread of our users is global,” he said. “We’re starting to get a lot of very localized slurs, which we didn’t have before.”

Resolving issues with user-generated content

Relying on user-generated content isn’t without its problems, said Timothy Quinn, an adviser with the Sentinel Project. Hatebase has attracted some people with political agendas who have started arguing over words and definitions that likely have very little value for organizations concerned about genocide.

“I’ve had a couple of Nazis that are pissed off at me. I’ve got a group of anti-feminists that are pissed off that we removed a word we didn’t think was hate speech,” Quinn said.

For example, some recent additions to the Hatebase wiki, such as “patriarchy,” “cis male” and “white privilege,” are found in academic language commonly used in women’s studies. If those words were a sign of genocide, university campuses would be very scary places.

Fortunately, Hatebase can distinguish what inputs are relevant and doesn’t bother with anything that doesn’t relate to an area of concern, Quinn said. “Some of it is meaningful and some of it is not. Funny enough, the stuff of dubious value is the stuff people fight about the most,” he said.

An Open Letter to Canadians

RBC has been in the news this week in a way no company ever wants to be.

The recent debate about an outsourcing arrangement for some technology services has raised important questions.

While we are compliant with the regulations, the debate has been about something else. The question for many people is not about doing only what the rules require - it's about doing what employees, clients, shareholders and Canadians expect of RBC. And that's something we take very much to heart.

Despite our best efforts, we don't always meet everyone's expectations, and when we get it wrong you are quick to tell us. You have my assurance that I'm listening and we are making the following commitments.

First, I want to apologize to the employees affected by this outsourcing arrangement as we should have been more sensitive and helpful to them. All will be offered comparable job opportunities within the bank.

Second, we are reviewing our supplier arrangements and policies with a continued focus on Canadian jobs and prosperity, balancing our desire to be both a successful business and a leading corporate citizen.

Third, our Canadian client call centres are located in Canada and support our domestic and our U.S. business, and they will remain in Canada.

Fourth, we are preparing a new initiative aimed at helping young people gain an important first work experience in our company, which we will announce in the weeks ahead.

RBC proudly employs over 57,000 people in Canada. Over the last four years, despite a challenging global economy, we added almost 3,000 full-time jobs in Canada. We also hire over 2,000 youth in Canada each year and we support thousands more jobs through the purchases we make from Canadian suppliers. As we continue to grow, so will the number of jobs for Canadians.

RBC opened for business in 1864 and we have worked hard since then to earn the confidence and support of the community. Today, we remain every bit as committed to earning the right to be our clients' first choice, providing rewarding careers for our employees, delivering returns to shareholders who invest with us, and supporting the communities in which we are privileged to operate.

I'd like to close by thanking our employees, clients, shareholders and community partners for your input and continued support.

Sincerely,

Invitations sent for Thatcher funeral

A who's who of mourners. World leaders, politicians, celebrities make the list, including past enemies

Invitations to Margaret Thatcher's funeral are going out to more than 2,000 celebrities, dignitaries, colleagues and friends of the late British leader — from former U.S. presidents to Dynasty star Joan Collins to composer Andrew Lloyd Webber.

Invitations were being printed Thursday and will be mailed out on Friday, the government said.

Thatcher, who died Monday at the age of 87, will be given a funeral with military honours at St. Paul's Cathedral on Wednesday.

Though not officially a state funeral, it is the grandest such service seen in Britain since the death in 2002 of the Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Queen Elizabeth II will be among the mourners — the first time the monarch has attended a prime minister's funeral since the death of Winston Churchill in 1965.

The invitation list includes all surviving U.S. presidents, British politicians past and present, former U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, Canadian Prime Minister Stephen Harper and European Commission President Jose Manuel Barroso.

Prime Minister David Cameron's office said the list — drawn up by Thatcher's family, her Conservative Party and the government — includes representatives of 200 states and organizations

A journalist reports from outside Baroness Thatcher's residence in Chester Square on April 9 in London, England. Thatcher, who died Monday at the age of 87, will be given a funeral with military honours at St. Paul's Cathedral on Wednesday.

with whom Britain has normal diplomatic relations.

Invitees include the ambassador of Argentina, with whom Britain, under Thatcher, fought a 1982 war over the Falkland Islands.

Most countries will be represented at the funeral by ambassadors or other officials. Downing St. said the only current and former world leaders invited were those who had a "close connection to Baroness Thatcher."

A representative of Nelson Mandela — whom Thatcher once called a terrorist — has also been invited.

Some of those figures most closely associated with her 1979-1990 tenure already have said they will not attend. Nancy Reagan, widow of U.S. President Ronald Reagan, will send a representative, and former Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev says poor health prevents him from coming to London.

The dress code for the funeral calls for day dress, morning dress, dark suit or "full day ceremonial without swords."

The scale of the funeral — and the multimillion-pound cost — has drawn criticism. Thatcher is dividing opinion in death, much as her uncompromising free-market economic policies did in life.

But Cameron said "it is right to have a ceremonial funeral, with key elements of a state funeral, with the troops lining the route."

"I think people would find us a pretty extraordinary country if we didn't properly commemorate with dignity, with seriousness, but with also some fanfare ... the passing of this extraordinary woman," he told Sky News.

Princess Alexandra? Baby-name betting heats up

Queen Debbie doesn't quite have the right ring to it. King Bob just sounds wrong.

Naming a baby is no easy business, but much more is at stake when it comes to finding the right name for a future monarch.

Britain's bookmakers have some ideas to offer to Prince William and the Duchess of Cambridge: Alexandra is the clear favourite, with the odds slashed at 2-1 as of Thursday. One of the bookies, Coral, said that at one point betting on the name became so fur-ous that it had to suspend it.

Elizabeth, Diana and Victoria are close behind, following widespread speculation that the royal couple's first child will be a girl.

All things considered, the bookies are likely on the right track.

"Royal names tend to be based on previous monarchs, relatives and godparents to ensure continuity," said historian Carolyn Harris, who lectures at the University of Toronto's school of continuing studies.

"(The names) are not generally something out of the blue. It will be something that fits into the royal lineage, names used by previous kings and queens," she added.

Alexandra appears to be a good bet — it's the name of Queen Elizabeth II's great-grandmother, a Danish princess who married Edward VII.

It's not clear why people suddenly became so enthusiastic about the name Alexandra over the past few days, though Simon Clare, a spokesman for the bookmaker Coral, offered a clue: Many of the bets appeared to be coming in from Berkshire, the county that's home to royal residence Windsor Castle.

"With these sorts of markets you don't expect a rush of money. Generally it comes once people think they know what's happened," he said. He added, however, that it could also just be that "someone at the local pub said Kate quite liked the idea of the name."

TAKE FLIGHT WITH NEW OPPORTUNITY

AT NSCC AVIATION INSTITUTE OPEN HOUSE ON APRIL 16

NSCC's Aviation Institute is holding an open house on April 16 from 6-8 p.m.

Located in the former Moir's chocolate factory on 375 Pleasant St., in Dartmouth Gate, behind Value Village, the Aviation Institute is a 43,000-square-foot training facility equipped with the latest aerospace technology.

"The NSCC Aviation Institute has everything students need, including airplanes, helicopters, turbine engines and actual cockpit simulators for students to work with," says Peter Bing, the institute's chair.

The institute offers aircraft maintenance engineer programs in avionics, mechanical and structures. The first two programs run for two years, while the last one is a one-year program.

Graduates are equipped to work on either fixed-wing aircraft or helicopters.

Simon Hirtle graduated from the institute in 2008 and has worked as an aircraft maintenance engineer for Jazz Air since then.

"My education gave me a solid foundation for the things I needed getting into the aviation industry," he says.

Hirtle loves the fact the work is hands-on and also requires problem-solving as you assess complex systems, troubleshoot and find efficient solutions. He says the team-oriented approach to learning at NSCC helped prepare him for life at Jazz.

"You can never fix an airplane by yourself," Hirtle says. "There's always more than one person involved, so being able to communicate and work as a team is absolutely essential."

Student Stefan Blanchard will be graduating in June and is very pleased with the education he has received.

"If you need any help, the faculty are there for you," he says. "All of the instructors are willing to give 100 per cent if you're willing to give 100 per cent back."

Blanchard says with the diverse background and contacts of the faculty, they can help students achieve their career goals. "One of them will guide you to your dream," he says.

The Aviation Institute's open house will include tours of the facility, as well as representatives from the aircraft industry, student loan providers and other funding agencies to answer people's questions.

For more, see nsc.ca/aviation.

RBC apologizes to workers

Mea culpa. Bank will publish open letter in response to furor over treatment of IT staff

Royal Bank's top executive apologized Thursday to the workers who are being affected by the bank's outsourcing arrangement with a foreign company, saying RBC should have been more sensitive and helpful to them.

The apology follows a backlash against the bank after some of its Canadian information technology workers complained they were being replaced by foreign workers working for a company contracted by RBC. Chief executive Gord

Nixon said in an open letter, to be published in Friday newspapers, that the bank is also reviewing its supplier arrangements and policies to balance its desire to be a successful business and a "leading corporate citizen."

"RBC has been in the news this week in a way no company ever wants to be," Nixon said in a letter distributed Thursday afternoon.

"While we are compliant with the regulations, the debate has been about something else. The question for many people is not about doing only what the rules require — it's about doing what employees, cli-

Japanese auto producers issue recall over airbags

Toyota, Honda, Nissan and three other automakers are recalling nearly 3.4 million older model vehicles worldwide, including at least 200,000 in Canada, because of defective air bags that can send shrapnel flying into the passenger compartment.

The front passenger air bags all were made by the same parts supplier, Japan's Takata Corp. Takata says no one has been hurt, but there have been six incidents of the air bags deploying improperly on roadways. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Austria. Police arrest man in Red Bull blackmail case

Austrian police have arrested a man suspected of blackmailing Red Bull by threatening to place cans of its energy drink contaminated with feces on supermarket shelves.

Police officials cited at a Salzburg news conference by the Austria Press Agency say the unidentified 47-year-old suspect was arrested Wednesday after he showed up for a payoff in the Lower Austrian town of Moedling. Thursday's report didn't say how much the suspected blackmailer was demanding.

An official answering the telephone at Salzburg police headquarters reported the arrest. The threats started coming in February by mail and email. Spot checks of stores across Austria showed no trace of tampering with the company's product. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

I wanted to tell you that I really enjoy reading your paper in Calgary.

In the April 4 edition of Metro news Calgary the article, Earth to PMO: We're doomed by John Mazerolle, was so funny I laughed myself silly.

When I got home, I shared the article with my husband and he laughed so hard, too.

I have no doubt the script from the real PMO's office would read much the same, almost word for word, if a meteor were on its way.

Thanks for a thoughtful and hilarious article.

Synopsis

42 covers roughly two years in Jackie Robinson's (Chadwick Boseman) life, the period in which he went from unknown minor league player to the man who broke the colour barrier in professional baseball. In 1947 there were 400 players in Major League Baseball, 399 white team members and Robinson. Recruited by Branch Rickey (Harrison Ford), owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the first baseman withstood racism from teammates, fans and opposing players to become an icon of the game and civil rights movement.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

42. The realities of 1940s racism aren't toned down in this Jackie Robinson biopic

Richard: Mark, I liked this movie. It's an old-fashioned Hollywood biopic, and I think as that it works well, but I can't start any conversation about the movie without mentioning Harrison Ford's performance. He's the gruff old coot Branch Rickey and Harrison brings him to life with cigar and eyebrow acting, hurumphing his way through the role in an entertaining, but decidedly hammy fashion. What did you make of his performance?

Mark: Richard, there is no movie WITHOUT Harrison Ford. Everyone else is pretty one dimensional, good or evil, including Robinson himself. But Ford brings a little craziness to a very sober biopic. Rickey's a hard guy to figure out, which is good. Is he just a savvy businessman, as he claims? A closet idealist? An egomaniac looking to claim a place in the history books? Ford always keeps us guessing, which is more than the rest of the movie does. I liked the movie, but really, when the bad guys are redneck racists in the 1940s it's like shooting catfish in a barrel.

RC: I liked Ford too but you take those eyebrows away and there's not a whole lot left to that character. 42 is a melodramatic Hollywood biopic with one big moment after the next buoyed by a swelling soundtrack and loads of stock characters, but writer/director Brian Helgeland doesn't shy away from the harder edged aspects of the story. He tackles the racism Robinson was greeted with head on and it is often uncomfortable to watch.

MB: All too true, and you just can't believe that kind of overt racism occurred only 70 years ago. But, oh, that soundtrack! Stop telling me how to feel; I feel it already! By the way, I thought Chris Meloni played an interesting character, a flawed human being with a good essence. I wish he had been in the movie more. And the film had a nice sense of time and place. But although Robinson himself is a hero, he's forced by history to be a bit of a bore, which is not good for the movie.

RC: I thought Chadwick Boseman showed some of the tenacity, talent and strength of character that made Robinson a legend.

MB: He was excellent at conveying Robinson's noble purpose. But you know what they say about the Bible: it's the Devil that has the best part!

Drama

The Place Beyond the Pines

Director. Derek Cianfrance

Stars. Ryan Gosling, Bradley Cooper, Eva Mendes

Cianfrance's backwoods grand opera traces a tragic event as it ripples over nearly 20 years. Gosling is extraordinary as a disturbed jittery drifter/bank robber who can charm a crying baby. Cooper appears an hour in for one brief, violent exchange with Gosling and the story becomes his. This 140-minute moral cat-and-mouse game is smart and intriguing, with a unique structure, a restrained, effective script and masterful direction, and top notch performances at every level. ANNE BRODIE

Documentary

Revolution

Director. Rob Stewart

Saving the world is a lofty goal for a documentary, but that's not stopping Rob Stewart from trying with Revolution. After championing the cause against shark finning in Sharkwater, Stewart realized that saving sharks was just the tip of the iceberg; ocean acidification would wipe out pretty much everything in the water unless we seriously alter our lifestyles. As altruistic as his cause is, as a film, Revolution is flimsy at best. The narrative, part travelogue, part nature film, is muddled. Stewart throws out facts like moral thunderbolts but does a poor job of summing his position. IAN GORMELY

On the lam with Redford

The Company You Keep. Actor talks Weather Underground and gets philosophical about searching for the truth in journalism

MATT PRIGGE
Metro World News in New York

The Company You Keep, the ninth film Robert Redford has directed — and only the third he has starred in as well — concerns former members of the Weather Underground, the militant, and sometimes violent, anti-Vietnam War organization. A longtime Hollywood liberal, Redford has spoken of the film's political nature elsewhere. But today he discusses its other aspects.

"If you had to break it down in terms of which (theme) is more important, the one for my character is obvious: the love of his daughter," he explains.

When the Feds start rounding up ex-members responsible for a violent bank robbery, Redford's character, who's innocent of those charges, goes on the lam to clear his name.

"What happens when you're passionate and totally committed to something in your youth, and then that evaporates? You grow out of that position and you're still stuck because of the trap you created for yourself when you were young. What is the cost of that? (The film is) not about that event that took place in 1970. That's the kick-off. It's about their lives right now."

When journalists talk to Redford, inevitably All the President's Men, the 1976 film about the revelation of Watergate, comes up.

"That was not about Watergate. That was not about President Nixon," he maintains. "It was about those two guys and the work that they did. I wanted to put a light on something I didn't think many people knew about, which is: how do journalists work? How do they get a story?"

The film's portrait of journalism doesn't quite mesh

Robert Redford is a man trying to clear his name in The Company You Keep. HANDOUT with today. "(Journalism has) changed so drastically, because of the democratization of information. Anyone can put something up. So now it's harder and harder to find what the truth is," he says, pointing out that there's less regulation of the press now. "The rules that governed journalism when I was younger said you had to get two people to go on record before you could quote a source. That's gone. What took it away was the need to compete. You had to scoop. Sometimes you couldn't wait around to do the ethical thing. You had to jump to get ahead of the next guy. It makes Watergate look like a piece of history. It can't come back."

Will Cruise's star fade into Oblivion?

Sparkle and shine.

The last few years have shown even Tommy is fallible at the box office — so how will audiences receive his latest adventure?

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

A year ago, Tom Cruise was riding a wave of good press with a comeback narrative in full swing. His franchise return Mission: Impossible Ghost Protocol had reassured Hollywood that audiences still had an appetite for the star after something of a dry patch, eventually bringing in nearly $700 million worldwide at the box office. And on top of that, he had two high-profile and buzzed-about roles ahead for 2012 — the hair metal musical Rock of Ages and the tough-guy crime thriller Jack Reacher.

But then Rock of Ages was met with withering reviews

Tom Cruise's film Oblivion opens in theatres next Friday. GETTY IMAGES and disappointing box office numbers, and Jack Reacher underperformed, with neither film opening at No. 1 at the box office. Now, with Cruise's Oblivion set to launch — following an ad campaign relying heavily on the star's bankability — Hollywood finds itself asking the same questions it did before the release of Ghost Protocol: Can Tom Cruise open a movie?

The last few years have suggested that the age of the movie star may be over, that audiences are no longer swayed merely by the presence of a big name on the poster. In fact, until recently it seemed the only two stars left who could be counted on to open a movie — regardless of its content — were Will Smith and Adam Sandler. Smith's Men in Black 3 was indeed a blockbuster last year, but it was his first starring role in four years. And the generally review-proof Sandler's last two live-action outings, Jack and Jill and That's My Boy, were complete bombs. (It should be noted that Hotel Transylvania, which featured Sandler's voice, was a hit.)

And so far, 2013 hasn't been very good to traditional movie stars, with major box office flops for Expendables stars Arnold Schwarzenegger, Sylvester Stallone and Jason Statham. Bruce Willis' A Good Day to Die Hard fared a bit better, at least opening at No. 1, but in eight weeks of release it's still a long ways off from recouping its $92 million budget. Even Brad Pitt, who is hoping June's World War Z will do well enough to launch a franchise, took a bath on last November's Killing Them Softly, which he both starred in and produced.

So if Oblivion doesn't do well, does that mean the Tom Cruise brand is officially in trouble? Not likely. As Ghost Protocol proved, the star has an uncanny ability to bounce back from both critical failures and tabloid talk. And with the more recent Oblivion trailers making the film look more interesting and enticing, maybe Cruise's latest go at saving the world will also save his career. Again.

No achy breaky hearts for O'Dowd

The Sapphires. Actor's attitude toward country music parallels his character's beliefs about the genre

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca

"Country and western music," says Chris O'Dowd, "is a very easy thing to deride."

In The Sapphires O'Dowd plays an Irish musician playing piano in Australia's outback bars in exchange for beer money. His life is spiraling downward until he discovers a group made up of four of talented Indigenous Australian sisters. Trouble is, he doesn't like the music they sing.

"When I met you," he says in the film, "you were doing all country and western things and that's fine, we all make mistakes."

For O'Dowd that speech was art imitating life. "My dad played guitar in pubs playing country and western music," he says. "So I feel like the whole speech I do about country and western music is something that has been pent up in me since I was 14. Carrying his guitar case to listen to bad Merle Haggard tracks."

"Country and western music is huge in Ireland. I don't know why. It's all Kris Kristofferson and a bit of Willie Nelson and Clint Black. Dad was really into it. Maybe it's that country and western has some origins in bluegrass and bluegrass has origins in Irish music. There's something going on there. And Irish people love a good whine. We're great at it."

In the film he convinces the girls to trade country for soul music and shapes them into a version of The Supremes.

"I wrote this speech about how country music is about loss, but soul music is also about loss — you've lost but you haven't given up — and that has a nice payoff in the film."

"Country music is kind of whiny," he says. "He left me, now what am I going to do with my life? Whereas soul music is like, 'I'm going to get that bugger back.' It's nice. It's a nice turning point in the film where we're not going to feel sorry for ourselves. That's an important element for the entire story. About moving on."

Thinking back on his teenage years, he speculates if his attitude might have been different if dear old dad had sung a different kind of music.

"I wonder if he had been an amazing Al Green-esque songster if I would have still said, 'This is so lame.' I wonder sometimes with people whose parents are cool. I've been working with Rashida Jones recently and I'm like, 'How can you not think your dad is cool?'"

Chris O'Dowd stars in The Sapphires, which opens next week. HANDOUT

Come on! Top 5 recurring jokes on Arrested Development

TV. Fan sites dedicated to Arrested Development have catalogued dozens of beloved recurring jokes, so coming up with a short list isn't easy. But here are five of the most memorable jokes that have popped up repeatedly and may re-emerge for season four, on Netflix starting May 26.

"Come on!"

It's mostly Gob's catchphrase but several characters have enthusiastically barked out the famous one-liner throughout the series in a pique of frustration.

"I've made a huge mistake"

Another line that's repeatedly uttered by Gob but is borrowed by other characters. The recurring gag is made funnier when Gob says to Michael in an episode, "I've never admitted to a mistake."

Chicken taunts

It's a family tradition to taunt and mock a fellow Bluth by clucking and dancing like a chicken in their face. Nearly everyone in the family has been seen doing it, with their own personal style, although none do it very well. "Has anyone in this family even seen a chicken?" says Michael Bluth, played by Jason Bateman, in one episode.

Never nude

Seasons one and two are littered with references to the affliction suffered by Tobias Funke, played by David Cross, who can't bring himself to be naked.

Next time/Previously on Arrested Development

Some of the funniest quick laughs come during the "Previously on" and "Next time on" segments that bookend episodes — and are typically filled with non sequiturs that completely stray from the show's real storylines.

More than one familiar Voice from the past

Television. While there are plenty of new faces on the NBC singing show, there are a few familiar ones as well

MARY ANN

Keeping up with the many seasons of various singing competitions is a tall task (you have to commit two nights of your TV-watching week, and once you find a contestant to root for, he or she could be gone the next week) — but when The Voice came back late last month for its fourth season, there were a few familiar faces along with the new ones.

Veteran judges Adam Levine and Blake Shelton welcomed newbies Shakira and Usher to the judges table, but there was also a mix of old and new amongst the contestants during the premiere's blind auditions.

Contestant Garrett Gardner says he didn't let previous seasons' disappointment stand in the way of auditioning again.

"I took into account what, in particular, Blake had told me — because he was really the one who gave me some really harsh but much-needed constructive criticism," says the 17-year-old singer, who wowed Shakira enough with his version of the White Stripes' Seven Nation Army to make it onto her team.

Holly Tucker is also no stranger to The Voice. The Texan, who made it onto Blake's team, auditioned for season one of the competition. Tucker says she values that the judges couldn't see her while she sang.

"I've been judged in the past and it's something that you just have to get a thick skin and learn to deal with — which is what I think I've done over the past years," she says.

Beer. Brewery Ommegang, HBO's Iron Throne $8.50

The Game Of Thrones beer is here just in time for season three of the HBO series. Staff at Metro New York got a sample — here's their take.

Marketing description

"With a Lannister currently on the throne, it made sense to do a delicate, but piercing Golden Blonde Ale with Noble hops. Iron Throne is certainly fair in color and soft in appearance, yet it still possesses a complexity and bite to be on guard for."

Metro staff description

This beer is as "velvety as the royal capes in Game of Thrones" and even got props from one non-beer drinker noting they can "actually drink this without cringing." Some thought the partnership with HBO was "weird" but the "tasty" blonde ale is "crisp" and "like a girl beer a guy won't be embarrassed to drink." Although one did wonder, "Is this just Blue Moon in a fancy bottle?" METRO

10 years later, surprise stars will Give Up again

Interview. Jimmy Tamborello, formerly of Postal Service, will reunite with Ben Gibbard for an anniversary tour of their smash hit album

A decade ago, Death Cab for Cutie's Ben Gibbard and electronic producer Jimmy Tamborello teamed as the Postal Service and ascended to unlikely heights with their lone album Give Up.

Give Up is being reissued with a deluxe 10th anniversary edition Tuesday, the same day the pair launches a reunion tour that will wind through Toronto's Air Canada Centre on June 11 and Vancouver's Rogers Arena on July 16.

The soft-spoken Tamborello, best-known for recording solo under the Dntel moniker, recently spoke about the initial collaboration, seeing its progression and why Give Up connected.

Originally, this partnership between you and Ben came about pretty organically, didn't it?

Yeah, definitely. There was never like a deadline or anything unfun about the process. It was all real relaxed. Getting to know somebody while making a poppy record.

What did you like about working with Ben?

The fact that we were doing it through the mail made it different than most collaborations, because we just weren't around each other.

And we didn't know each other super well when we started, so maybe in the beginning it was a little bit more reserved.

Like, I didn't want to say: "Oh, I don't like that." And I think he was the same way. (But) I think we liked what each other was doing.

Did you suspect early on that it would be such a phenomenon? If not, when did you start to think that way?

No, I think both of us didn't really know how people would take it. It's totally surprising how many people got into it.

First thing, we did a tour in the U.S. right when the album came out, and in the beginning of the tour, the shows were pretty small. And as we travelled, the shows ahead of us kept getting moved to bigger venues and most of the shows were selling out.

Why do you think Give Up connected to the extent that it did?

I feel like I try to answer that one a lot and I never have a really good answer for it. I think it has this intimate quality just because of the way we made it and the fact that it was made in our bedrooms and mixed by us. The fact that it's such a small production makes the melancholy emotional part of it seem more real or genuine. But also, just kind of accidentally, the music came out poppier than I think we even meant it to. So I think that helped too. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jay-Z addresses Cuba trip critics

New song. Rapper pens Open Letter after his recent trip to communist country comes under fire

Jay-Z is defending his recent trip to Cuba in a new song. He released Open Letter

Thursday after two Florida Republican lawmakers questioned if his visit to Havana with wife Beyoncé was officially licensed.

On the song, Jay-Z raps about his distaste for politicians and says, "Want to give me jail time and a fine, let me commit a real crime."

U.S. Treasury officials said Tuesday the couple's trip was licensed as an educational exchange.

Jay-Z and Beyoncé are avid supporters of President Barack Obama. Jay-Z raps in his song, "Obama said, 'Chill, you gon' get me impeached, you don't need this (expletive) anyway, chill with me on the beach.'"

U.S. citizens are not allowed to travel to Cuba for mere tourism.

Couple of the year shockingly having relationship trouble

Reports that Rihanna and Chris Brown have broken up might not exactly be accurate, but that doesn't mean the couple is happy, according to Us Weekly.

A source tells the magazine that while the pair hasn't actually split up, they are fighting all the time.

"Every second it's a blow-up and then full-on in love," the source says. "She's touring and working her ass off, and he's working his off in the studio," and those busy schedules are adding to the stress.

Rihanna is even using work to vent some of her frustrations, asking an audience at an L.A. concert this week, "How many of you are in love? How many of you hate love? ... I'm in that group. The confused group."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Kristen Stewart crashes a little kid's party — sort of

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Look. I know the members of Hanson are old and they have, like, 23 kids between them (even the baby drummer has procreated — twice).

I've interviewed them several times and the voice on the other end wasn't prepubescent (they are also supersensitive to people thinking they are teenagers, something I learned the hard way when I squealed, "You are so grown up!" to them.)

I've even listened to their later albums. What I'm saying is: I know they are old and capable of partying.

But when I read on E! News that Kristen Stewart decided to celebrate her 23rd birthday by crashing a record release party for the band at L.A. nightclub No

Vacancy, my first thought was, "What is KStew doing with a bunch of eight-year-olds?"

Apparently, if you broke out as a little person, I will always consider you a little person (don't get me started on Lil' Bow Wow.)

Anyway, according to E!, the birthday girl arrived around 11 p.m. with Robert Pattinson and about 10 friends in tow, though it was unclear if they knew ahead of time about the band's party.

"They weren't overly affectionate or anything, but at points they were standing together as they talked to friends," a source says of Stewart and Pattinson.

And then Hanson played pin-the-tail on the donkey, ate confetti cake and all three had temper tantrums when they were told it was bedtime. I'm so sorry, Hanson. Next interview we do together, impress me with your 401K plan and maybe I'll wrap my head around the fact of your aging.

Madonna

Madonna feud heating up

Madonna's ongoing feud with Malawi President Joyce Banda isn't getting any better, with Banda now blasting the singer for reportedly demanding expedited travel privileges for herself and her entourage for a recent visit to the country, according to Yahoo! News.

"Granted, Madonna

is a famed international musician," Banda says in a statement. "But that does not impose an injunction of obligation on any government under whose territory Madonna finds herself, including Malawi, to give her state treatment. Such treatment, even if she deserved it, is discretionary."

The wrap on Pinot grigio

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Much like a human union, when it comes to food and wine, the bride often comes with an entourage that can't be ignored.

Big holiday meals are a classic example. Though the turkey might be the star of the show, every side dish puts its two cents worth into how successful the outcome of the liquid pairing will be.

Wraps create an everyday conundrum. They're sort of like an elaborate meal rolled into one conveniently edible package.

This week's lead recipe combines smoked salmon (that works with many wines, from a pinot noir red to a white, german off-dry riesling), creamy avocado (a chardonnay fan) and capers (which prefer a rosé).

The trick is to find a harmonious middle ground, and with this dish, all roads lead to pinot grigio. Typically a light, lean, easy-going style of white wine, it meets many ingredients halfway. With its subtle honeyed flavour and citrusy backbone, Mezzacorona's 2012 Pinot Grigio ($11.95 to $15.99) has a bit more heft than the average PG, making it a versatile wrap wine.

On stage: The Highest Order

On the back of their latest album released in March, If It's Real, The Highest Order takes to the stage at Gus Pub on Friday night. The new album, for those living under a rock, is described as a journey through cosmic country and classic rock genres. Come see the band live, grab a few drinks, and enjoy the dark trip through tales of lost love, loneliness, addiction, death and murder.

10th anniversary celebration

In June 1994, Saint George's Round Church on Brunswick Street suffered a devastating fire. One of the final steps in the reconstruction process was the installation of a magnificent Letourneau organ, one of the finest instruments in the Maritimes. On Sunday at 7 p.m., there will be a gala organ concert in the church to celebrate the 10th anniversary of its installation, featuring organist Garth MacPhee and Tempest Baroque Ensemble under the direction of David Greenberg.

For the Love of Spring: King's Chorus

The King's Chorus, a student led choral society based out of the University of King's College, present Love Songs for Spring Time on Friday. Unlike most university choirs, the King's Chorus is a non-competitive choir that is open to students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the university. Love Songs for Spring Time will be presented with the Maritime Brass Quintet and composer Paul Halley, a five-time Grammy Award winner.

On display: David Askevold

Once upon a Time in the East is an Art Gallery of Nova Scotia travelling exhibition that is coming home to Halifax, on display Saturday through to June, and curated by David Diviney and David Askevold. It was identified by Artforum magazine as one of the top 50 shows of 2011. Our own David Askevold's work was included in the seminal exhibition Information at New York's Museum of Modern Art in 1970 that cemented conceptualism as a genre.

New eateries: Tasty Lebanese food at Mezza

Barrington Street's Venus pizza has finished its new facelift to reveal Mezza. The delicious Lebanese cuisine that already resides on Quinpool Road now has a sister location in the heart of Barrington street. Be it for a quick stop in for lunch during the workday, a casual dinner before a show, or a stomach barrier before a rip-roaring-raunchy time downtown—stop in.

Hallelujah: An evening with Leonard Cohen

A music legend will be taking to the Metro Centre stage Saturday evening. A poet. A musician. A novelist. A Canadian. I don't have the word count to discuss all his accolades but I did meet his fan club in Hydra, Greece. True. Story. Oh—and he knows my grandma—but enough about how cool I am by proxy. Shell out some justifiable cash and take in the world of Leonard Cohen. Visit: ticketatlantic.com

Sakic leads new class of inductees

Hockey Hall of Famer and two-time Stanley Cup champion Joe Sakic headlines this year's list of inductees into Canada's Sports Hall of Fame.

Sakic, who had 1,641 career regular-season points over 20 seasons in the NHL, won league championships with the Colorado Avalanche in 1996 and 2001. He also won titles at the Winter Olympics, world hockey championship, World Cup of Hockey, world junior championships and Memorial Cup.

Others named in the athlete category on Thursday include cyclist Alison Sydor, curler Russ Howard and Paralympian Andre Viger. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL, NHLPA partner to combat homophobia

The NHL and National Hockey League Players' Association have partnered with the You Can Play Project, an advocacy organization fighting homophobia in sports.

The You Can Play Project was founded by Philadelphia Flyers scout Patrick Burke in March 2012 in memory of Brendan Burke, Patrick's younger brother and the son of former NHL GM Brian Burke.

You Can Play will conduct seminars at the NHL's rookie symposium and make its resources and personnel available to each individual team as desired. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Moose look to build on momentum

QMJHL playoffs. Even after back-to-back series sweeps, Herd still has lots left to prove

ANDREW RANKIN

Zachary Fucile could have been forgiven for showing a little unbridled joy on Wednesday night.

But apart from a polite smile, the 17-year-old Halifax Mooseheads netminder was all business before a group of reporters after leading his team to a second-round sweep of the Gatineau Olympiques.

Sure, the reigning Canadian Hockey League goalie of the week acknowledged his strong play between the pipes, allowing just five goals over the entire series.

But he was also quick to put those accomplishments and his team's back-to-back series sweeps into perspective.

"We want to keep rolling," Fucile said. "We want to have a steamroller approach to every game. We haven't won anything yet."

While the Mooseheads have until next Saturday to prepare for their semifinal series against the winner of the other quarter-final matchup between the Rouyn-Noranda

Number of days off the Mooseheads will have before the next series begins.

Huskies and Quebec Remparts, their No. 1 priority is to pick up exactly where they've left off.

"We'll get a little rest but then it's back to work," Fucile said. "It's about creating momentum and, for me, it's about making sure you're prepared every time you're on the ice. It's paying off right now and I'm looking to keep it going."

Mooseheads forward Stefan Fournier couldn't agree more.

In his final year of junior eligibility, he's having a stellar postseason, leading the league in playoff goals with 11, and sits tied for most points with 19.

"I feel tired right now," he said with a laugh after his Game 4 hat trick. "But we have time to prepare and come back with the same intensity we've showed all along."

Going into the break he said he's far more concerned with maintaining his relentless style of play than his torrid scoring pace.

"I can't predict goals but I can control the way I play, whether I stand in front of the net, go hard to the net (or) go after loose pucks."

Canadiens lock up playoff spot

Peter Budaj stopped 14 shots, and the Montreal Canadiens clinched a playoff berth and regained the Northeast Division lead with a 5-1 win over the Buffalo Sabres on Thursday night.

P.K. Subban and Andrei Markov had a goal and assist each, and Rene Bourque, Alex Galchenyuk and Brendan Gallagher also scored for the Canadiens.

In earning its fourth post-season berth in five years, Montreal is returning to the playoffs after bottoming out last year, when the Canadiens finished last in the Eastern Conference.

The Boston Bruins fell back into fourth place in the East after a 2-1 loss to the New York Islanders on Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tigers jump all over Jays starter Johnson

MLB. New Toronto pitcher surrenders six runs in the shortest start of his career

Josh Johnson put his team in another tough spot with one of the worst outings of his career.

The Toronto right-hander was knocked out of the game in the second inning Thursday — the latest poor start by a Blue Jays pitcher — and the Detroit Tigers rolled to an 11-1 win at chilly Comerica Park.

Miguel Cabrera tripled, scored twice and even stole a base for the Tigers, and Doug Fister (2-0) allowed a run and eight hits in eight innings.

Johnson (0-1) allowed six runs and seven hits in 1 1/3 innings — the shortest start of his career.

"I haven't thrown a slider for a strike yet, and I need that pitch. When I'm throwing it for strikes, it is something that the hitters have to think about, but this is two starts now, and it hasn't happened," Johnson said. "I didn't have anything today. They were all over my curveball for some reason, and the fastball was just hanging over the plate."

Prince Fielder had four RBIs and Torii Hunter added three for the Tigers.

Garcia enjoys lead at Masters 'while it lasts'

Golf. Spaniard shares top spot with Leishman after opening with 66

Sergio Garcia is still chasing that first major title.

It never figured to come at Augusta National.

But there he was Thursday, after a bogey-free opening round, sharing the top spot on the leaderboard at the Masters.

"Obviously, this is not my most favourite place," Garcia said, trying to be diplomatic. "But we try to enjoy it as much as we can every time we come here. Sometimes it comes out better than others. Today was one of those good days. Let's enjoy it while it lasts."

Garcia's 6-under 66 tied him with Aussie Marc Leishman on a cloudy day that was made for going low. The Spaniard took advantage, rekindling memories of the teen phenom who seemed certain to win numerous major titles after he battled with Tiger Woods at the 1999 PGA Championship, losing by a single stroke.

Garcia has challenged in other majors, but rarely at the Masters — a course that doesn't seem to fit his style or shaky putter. In 14 appearances at Augusta National, he has finished in the top 10 only twice.

This year, Woods is still the favourite after opening with a 70. But it appears he'll have a lot of competition.

"I felt like I putted well today," said Woods, whose only lower opening-round score at Augusta was a 68 in 2010. "We've got a long way to go.... The golf course is going to change dramatically. You've just got to make adjustments."

"Today was a nice day, one of those days you really enjoy. Hopefully, I'll have three more of those and we'll see what happens on Sunday night."

Guan Tianlang

Anything but green at 14

Fourteen-year-old Guan Tianlang is the youngest golfer ever to compete at the Masters.

But he looked more like a veteran Thursday when he shot a 1-over 73 in his debut at Augusta National.

Guan made a 15-footer from off the green to birdie his final hole, getting a standing ovation.

If he plays this way Friday, the eighth-grader from China could set another record as the youngest player to make the cut at the Masters.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

If someone questions your motives or authority today, you must make it clear to them that you are the boss and you will do as you please. Say it nicely, of course, but make sure they know that you mean it.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Certain people seem to believe you exist solely to look out for their interests. Now is the time to remind them you have needs of your own and that they must come first — always.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may want to explain your actions to loved ones, though chances are they won't understand so why waste the time. Do what you have to do and let them figure it out.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

What is the one thing you desire above all? Is there a chance you will get it soon? If not, don't give up. Make your plans then take a step in the right direction and keep going.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The planets will have you rushing around in all directions today. One moment you'll be going this way, the next you'll be going that way, and half an hour later it will be all change again. Time for a vacation.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Why have you allowed your fears to get the better of you? Whatever your problems, you are exaggerating them to such an extent that it is stopping you from taking action. Believe that things will get better.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

It's not like you to get upset over trivial things but you have allowed minor everyday matters to get under your skin. Don't worry, over the weekend you'll find reasons to smile.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

What is destined to happen will happen. The sooner you accept that, the sooner you can start turning events to your advantage. Don't dread the future, welcome it.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Pluto begins one of its retrograde phases today, which warns of confusion in your dealings with powerful people. It may seem as if they are being unreasonable but be patient. Everything will be OK.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Whatever you decide to do today, someone is sure to be unhappy about it. But that must not stop you from taking whatever action you think is correct. Remember: You cannot please everyone.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You will clash with someone whose way of looking at the world is very different from your own, on the surface at least. Dig a little deeper and you may find you are alike.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

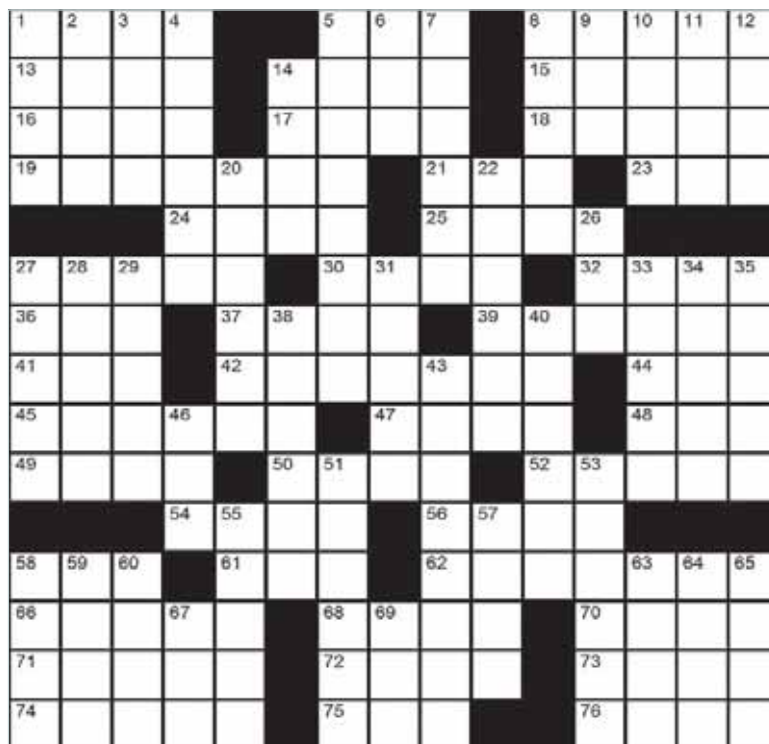

A friend will do something today that you find hard to understand. It may seem as if they are acting irresponsibly but you could also be expecting too much.
